

Living at Home Waiver Program

Providing community services and supports to enable people with physical disabilities to live in their own home.

What is a Personal Emergency Response System?

Personal Emergency Response Systems – an electronic device or system that enables a participant to secure help in an emergency, including motion detector.

Types of Personal Emergency Response Systems

There is one type of Personal Emergency Response Systems Provider, Agency – Employed Model – provider must be a store, vendor, organization, or company that sells, rents, installs, services, or runs the device or service.

NOTE: The response centers must be adequately staffed 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Credentials for Agency Employed Personal Emergency Response Systems Providers

Evidence that the applicant is a store, vendor, organization, or company:

- A. Sells, rents, installs, services, or runs personal emergency response device(s) or services
- B. Can provide or arrange for required installation, servicing, training, or monitoring required for the device or system

If a service is offered the response centers must be adequately staffed 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Payment Rate Effective July 1, 2006

$1,113.49 maximum - PERS, purchase/install

$1,336.18 maximum – PERS, motion purchase/install

$45.00 maximum – PERS monitoring